

ACHRAF IDRISSE is a Ph.D. candidate at the Institute of English and American Studies at the University of Debrecen, Hungary. He obtained his MA in Cultural Studies from the university of Sidi Mohamed Ben Abdullah, Morocco. His doctoral project explores the circulation of ideas and images of Europe across borders in Arab Islamic imagination, particularly representations of modernity through early modern diplomacy in the Mediterranean. His research interests include Mediterranean Studies, Cross-Cultural Encounters, Travel Writing, History, Orientalism, Occidentalism, Postcolonial Studies and Captivity Narratives.