

Texts from the Middle: Documents from the Mediterranean World (650–1650).

Thomas E. Burman (University of Notre Dame)

Brian A. Catlos (University of Colorado Boulder)

Mark D. Meyerson (University of Toronto)

Table of Contents [Draft]

Introduction

Part One: The Helleno-Islamic Mediterranean (650–1050 C.E.)

Chapter 1: “The Legacy of Empire”

1. The Battle of Siffin
2. Battle of Tours (732CE)
3. Legends of Women & the Conquest of al-Andalus
4. Toda of Navarre and 'Abd al-Rahman III
5. Charlemagne’s Elephant
6. Basil Lakapenos

Chapter 2: “Mediterranean Connections”

1. Harald Hadrada
2. Religious Relations in Fatimid Cairo
3. The Calendar of Córdoba
4. Jewish Traders’ Letters from the Cairo Geniza
5. Ibn Fadlan- At the Frontiers of the Mediterranean World

Chapter 3: “Conversion and the Consolidation of Identities”

1. Christian Arabization in Muslim Lands
2. Byzantine Iconoclasm
3. The Donation of Constantine
4. Jews in Early Medieval Europe
5. Jewish Communities and Muslim Authorities in the Cairo Geniza

Chapter 4: “Peoples of the Book Reading their Books”

1. Which is the Bible, Which is the Qur'an?
2. The Myth of the Septuagint
3. Studying in Eleventh-Century Iraq and France
4. Hadiths on Fasting, Charity, and the Hajj
5. A Christian and a Muslim Interpret their Scriptures
6. Plotinus on the One
7. Ibn Hazm Critiques the Christian Gospels and Explores the Nature of Love

Part Two: An Age of Conflict and Collaboration (1050–1350 C.E.)

Chapter 5: “Holy and Unholy War”

1. The Fall of Yusuf ibn Naghrilla
2. The Trial of Philip of Mahdia
3. Franks and Muslims in Crusade-era Palestine and Syria
4. Byzantium and Latin Europe
5. Papacy and Power
6. The Almohad Revolution

Chapter 6: “A Connected Sea”

1. Conquest and Negotiation
2. Looking East
3. A Rough Guide to Pilgrimage
4. A Pilgrim at Sea
5. Collaboration and Credit

Chapter 7: “Mediterranean Societies”

1. Morality in the Marketplace
2. The Limits of Legitimacy
3. Keeping it Clean
4. Power and Piety
5. The Challenge of Heresy
6. Pride and Prejudice

Chapter 8: Reading Each Others’ Books

1. Disciplina Clericalis of Petrus Alfonsi
2. The Muslim and Christian Buddhas
3. Mixed Blood Greek Border Lords
4. The Muslim Jesus
5. The Latin-Christian Encounter with the Talmud
6. The Book of the Covenant by Joseph Kimhi
7. Ibn Taymiyya Critiques Christianity-And Others

Chapter 9: A Sea of Technology, Science, and Philosophy

1. Hacking the Astrolabe Across the Mediterranean
2. The Life of a Scientific Translator
3. Learning Medicine, Finding Medicines
4. Aquinas’ Third Way
5. Gregory Palamas on the Dangers of Philosophy
6. Non-Rationalism Thrives!

Part Three: The Contest for the Mediterranean (1350–1650 C.E.)

Chapter 10: Imperial Rivalry and Sectarian Strife

- Islamic Discourses of Legitimacy
- Christian Views of the Fall of Constantinople
- Fernando II of Aragon and Spanish Imperial Expansion
- Machiavelli's Views on Politics
- Fighting Sectarian Enemies

Chapter 11: Minorities and Diasporas

- The Spanish Inquisition and the Expulsion of the Jews
- Oppression and Expulsion of the Moriscos
- Jews and Ghettos in Renaissance Italy
- Christians under Mamluk and Ottoman Rule
- Responses to Expulsion and Exile

Chapter 12: “Slavery and Captivity”

- Slave Soldiers in the Muslim World
- Early Medieval Europe and the Slave Trade
- Slave Life in Late Medieval Mediterranean Europe
- Crusaders, corsairs, and captives
- Perceptions of Black Africans in the Early Modern Mediterranean

Chapter 13: “Mystical Messiahs and Converts, Humanists and Armorers”

- Describing Muslim and Jewish Mystics
- A Morisco Prophecy of Turkish Triumph
- Conversion in Public
- Sixteenth-Century Latin-Christian Views of Islamic Science and Medicine
- Building and Firing the Bombards

Chapter 14: “Family, Gender, and Honor”

- Contracting Marriage
- Women in the Economy
- Women in Power
- Women's Spirituality
- Sexual Transgressions and the Law

Chapter 15: “Mediterranean Economies and Societies in a Widening World”

- Responses to the Plague
- Social Rebellion
- Muslim-Christian Commercial Agreements
- Private and Public Charity
- Climate Change, War, and Discontent