

Fariba Zarinebaf is professor of Middle Eastern history at UC-Riverside. She is the author of Mediterranean Encounters, Trade and Pluralism in Early Modern Galata and Crime and Punishment in Eighteenth Century Istanbul published by UC press in 2018 and 2011. Zarinebaf has also published on Ottoman-Safavid encounters. Her next book is tentatively entitled, The Last of Silk Caravans, Cross-Cultural Trade and Urban Life on Ottoman-Safavid Borderlands. Zarinebaf has taught at Bilkent University in Ankara, Northwestern University, University of Virginia and University of Illinois at Chicago.