

Short Bio

Fariba Zarinebaf is a professor of Middle Eastern and Islamic history at the University of California, Riverside. She is the author of Mediterranean Encounters: Trade and Pluralism in Early Modern Galata (University of California press, 2018) and Crime and Punishment in Eighteenth Century Istanbul (University of California, 2010). She has also published extensively on gender and law as well as intercommunal life in Istanbul. Her next book project will focus on the Silk Road tentatively entitled, The Last of Silk Caravans: Cross-Cultural Trade, Urban Life and Warfare on Ottoman-Safavid Borderlands in Early Modern period.