

Dr. Karen Rose Mathews is an Associate Professor of Art History at the University of Miami. She is a specialist in the visual culture of the medieval and early modern Mediterranean with an emphasis on intercultural relations, the circulation of objects, and artistic exchange across the sea. She published Conflict, Commerce, and an Aesthetic of Appropriation in the Italian Maritime Cities, 1000-1150 in 2018 and most recently served as lead editor and contributor to the interdisciplinary volume A Companion to Medieval Pisa (Brill, 2022). She has also written numerous articles addressing Mediterranean material culture and artistic production, focusing on Byzantium, Italy, and the Mamluk Empire. Her current research project, entitled Making the Mamluks Mediterranean, analyzes the integration of the Mamluks into pan-Mediterranean visual culture.